EWSolutions Wins Intelligent Enterprise's 2004 Best Business Intelligence Application
Intelligent Enterprise Magazine announced its annual "RealWare Awards" winners, and EWSolutions found their name at the top of the list in 2004. In the category of "Best Business Intelligence Application", EWSolutions won the "Best Information Integration Application" award, given to companies that excel in pulling together multiple resources to support a single version of the truth. This is exactly what EWSolutions has done for the Department of Defense (DoD).

The scope of the new central database for the DoD was greater than any metadata repository most had ever seen. By all accounts, this was a world class metadata management effort, tying together 8 million parts operated by 3 million people, depending on 3000 computer systems to provide data critical for making life saving decisions. David Marco, president of EWSolutions, was pleased with the results stating "we are all very proud of the work & the success that we've achieved".
